

Biography

Julia Kaltschew studied physics and received her doctor's degree from the Department of Materials Science at ETH Zurich. She works at VDI/VDE-IT since 2010 and leads the business development team in the field of electronics and microsystems. Her work focuses on the management of funding programs in the field of 5G mobile communications, electronic systems and automated driving for public authorities. She also has experience in the analyses and evaluation of technology trends for innovation networks. As an author, she has contributed to publications in the field of materials research/functional materials and position papers on electric mobility and automated driving. Julia Kaltschew is also active as an expert in various funding programs.

Photo

Logo of the Institution

VDI | VDE | IT